Two-Day Workshop

Day 1

Introduction to learner-centred course design

Day 2

- Deeper dive into learner-centred assessment
- Exploring engaging activities
- Circling back: "Do all my activities, resources and assessment strategies align with the with my proposed learning outcomes?"

Where have you been in your education journey?

- ▶ Where was your last education 'institute' before coming to UBC?

Where are you now on your journey?

1. Briefly pinpoint where on treasure island do you find yourself this morning?
2. Share where would you like to end up?

Objectives for Day Two

In today's session you will:

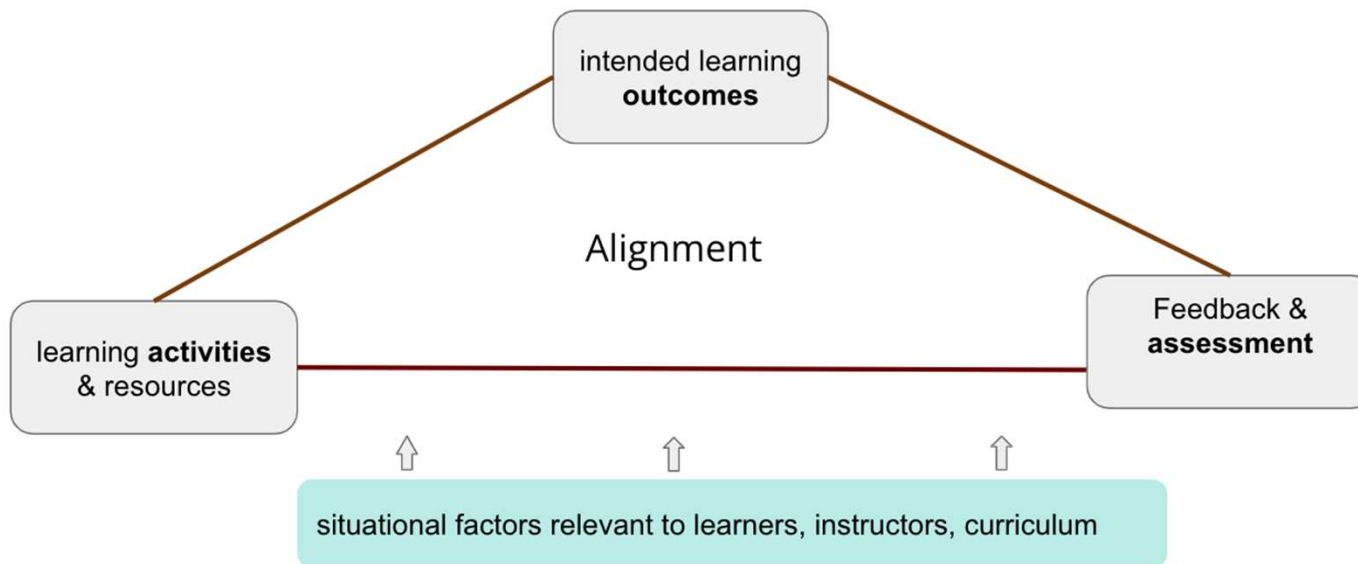

- ▶ Expand your understanding of learner-centred assessment practices
- ▶ Explore learner-centred instructional strategies that fit in your teaching context
- ▶ Practice aligning your learning outcomes with your assessment and instructional strategies

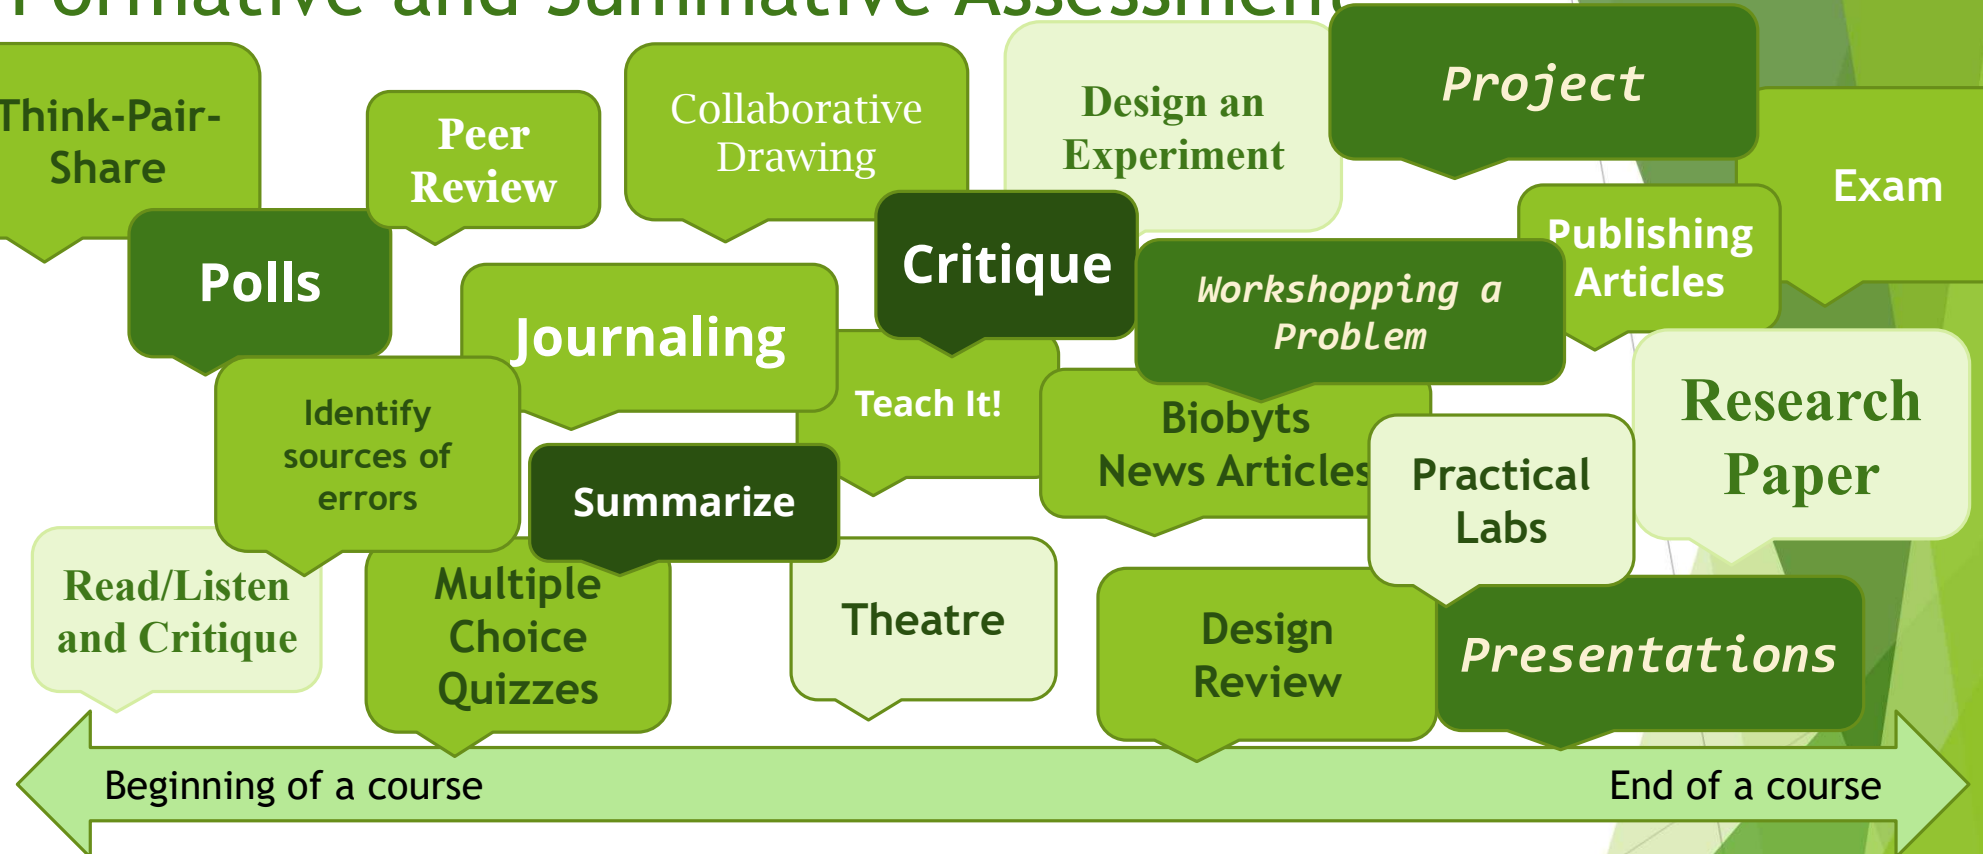

Agenda

- ▶ Welcome and settling in (you are here!)
- ▶ Check-in: Where are you now in your journey?
- ▶ Learner-centred assessment practices
- ▶ Instructional strategies & learning activities
- ▶ Alignment
- ▶ Next steps & wrap up

Stages of course design

Formative and Summative Assessment

Formative Assessment

- ▶ Multiple occurrences
- ▶ Low stakes (no to little grade)
- ▶ Monitor learning (and teaching)

Summative Assessment

- ▶ Near the end
- ▶ High stakes (major grade)
- ▶ Evaluate learning

Learner-centred Teaching

- ▶ Engages students actively in learning.
- ▶ Motivates by sharing some power and control.
- ▶ Encourages collaboration.
- ▶ Includes learning skill instruction (and demonstrates thinking and analysis processes).
- ▶ Makes space for students to learn and practice reflection on how and what they are learning.

Promising Assessment Techniques at UBC

- ▶ Mid-term and Exam
 - ▶ Student-generated questions
 - ▶ Flexible assessment
 - ▶ 2-stage exam
- ▶ Projects, Essays, Presentations, etc
 - ▶ Rubrics
 - ▶ Peer review of each other's work
 - ▶ Students as producers
 - ▶ Community-based learning
 - ▶ Nature-based/Arts-based
 - ▶ Podacsting
 - ▶ Ungrading

National Parks of Canada

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

National Parks of Canada are protected natural spaces throughout the country that represent distinct geographical regions of the nation. Under the administration of Parks Canada, a government branch, National Parks allow for public enjoyment without compromising the area for future generations, including the management of wildlife and habitat within the ecosystems of the park. Within Parks Canada's administration is a wide range of protected areas, encompassing National Historic Sites, National Marine Conservation Areas (NMCA), and National Park Reserves.

Canada's first national park, located in Banff, was established in 1885. Tourism and commercialization dominated early park development, followed closely by resource extraction. Commodifying the parks for the profit of Canada's national economy as well as conserving the natural areas for public and future use became an integrated method of park creation. The process of establishing National Parks has included the often forced displacement of indigenous and non-indigenous residents of areas within the proposed park boundaries. The conflicts between the creation of parks and the residents of the area have been negotiated through co-management practices, as Parks Canada acknowledged the importance of community involvement in order to sustain a healthy ecosystem.

A transition towards developing parks as a place of preservation began with the National Parks Act of 1930. This event marked a shift in park management practices. Revised in 1979 under the National Parks Policy, the Act placed greater emphasis on preserving the natural areas in an unimpaired state through ecological integrity and restoration, moving away from development based heavily on profit. Acting as national symbols, Canada's National Parks exist in every province and territory representing a variety of landscapes that mark Canada's natural heritage.

Two-stage Exam

Two-stage exam: Why?

Brett Gilley, EOAS and Vantage College, UBC

- ↓ Peer-based; self-assessment
- ↓ High stake (graded)
 - ← Focused and useful discussion
- ↓ Immediate feedback
- ↓ Promotes retention

In FNH 200 (Judy's course) Online:

- ↓ Promoted team work
- ↓ Addressed diversity
- ↓ Reinforce key concepts

Two-stage exam: How?

- ↓ Cut back your normal exam by 50%
- ↓ Groups:
 - ↪ Randomized
 - ↪ Self-selected
 - ↪ Assigned
- ↓ Multiple choice; short answer; short essay
- ↓ Individual 75 to 85%
- ↓ Group 15 to 25%
- ↓ Keeping individual mark when it is higher

#2 - Share Power and Control in Assessment Design/Choice

Principles

- ▶ Show/generate criteria and standards
- ▶ Give choices in assignment
- ▶ Give choices in grading %

Examples

- ▶ Students contributing to exam questions
- ▶ Rubrics, co-construction of rubrics in senior-level courses
- ▶ Flexible Assessment tool on Canvas

Student-generated exam questions

- State the question
- Provide the correct answer
 - And incorrect answers for multiple choice questions
- Why should your question be included on the exam?

#3 - Collaborative Learning

Principles

- ▶ Group/teamwork or projects
- ▶ Community involvement (authentic contexts)

Examples

- ▶ Teamwork, Small Group Work
- ▶ Community-based Learning
- ▶ Wikipedia-, Wiki-based, Open Projects

Teamwork

- ▶ Team formation:
 - Random, assigned, self-selected?
 - Diversity - diverse what?
- ▶ Team building vs individual strengths:
 - Class time for work
 - Roles
- ▶ Team goals, team tasks:
 - Clear tasks, expectations, and due dates
- ▶ Support from instructor, back-up plan

Peer Review of Writing

Best part of peer feedback:

“Reviewing other students' work and observing what they did well, and trying to incorporate that structure into my own work. i.e. seeing a strong, concise thesis statement and rewriting my own to be stronger and more concise

Answer 1

Shakespeare uses Prospero in The Tempest to examine the selfishness of human ambition through Prospero's manipulation of other island occupants to further his own destiny.

Answer 2

In The Tempest, William Shakespeare uses Prospero's journey to throw doubt on the Renaissance idea that power comes from God, suggesting instead that power originates in individual ambition.

Learner-centred learning activities

The purpose of Learning Activities

Engaging in hands-on activities, discussions and problem-solving tasks allows students to actively construct their own knowledge.

In backward design we start at the end with our learning objectives in mind and design learning experiences to achieve these goals.

Incorporating more active learning activities into our design means more meaningful and impactful learning experiences for students.

Jigsaw Activity Step 1

Acquaint yourself with these three activities by

- ▶ Visiting each activity station together (spend 10-15 minutes at each station).
- ▶ Reading the description of the activity together
- ▶ Share with each other how you might use them, and how they can be adapted for different contexts.
- ▶ Take into consideration any situational factor that may influence the use of these activities.
- ▶ Flipchart your answers.

Jig-Saw Learning Activity Demonstration

Round 1- Expert Group

You will explore one instructional strategy

Round 2- Jigsaw Group

Will will share the strategy you learned about in round 1

Jig-Saw Activity Instructions: Round 1

As partners, take 10 minutes to:

1. read the description of the activity so that you can explain what it involves to others
2. Sell your activity: How does your activity support the principles of learner-centred teaching?

Jig-Saw Activity Instructions: Round 2

Now

- ▶ Describe the activity that you learned about in round and give an example of a context in which the strategy could be best used. (5 minutes or less please, so that all 3 strategies can be covered)

Your turn, again...

- ▶ Return to your plan
- ▶ Jot down any ideas for activities you will use to assist the learners develop their knowledge, affective or psychomotor skills to demonstrate that they have reached the learning objectives in your project.
