

[!![LIVESTREAM]!!GAA#] Dublin vs Kerry Final Live Coverage SFC Tv Channel 30th July 2023

26 Sec Air Dublin v Kerry All-Ireland SFC Final stream TV. Here is our full guide to Kerry vs Dublin live streaming on TV. How to live stream and watch GAA All-Ireland Football Final 2023 – Television, Radio and Online On Sunday, July 30 at Croke Park, Dublin. Dublin vs Kerry time, live stream, TV Station for All-Ireland SFC final 2023.

The All-Ireland Senior Football Championship reaches its climax this weekend with old rivals Dublin and Kerry battling it out to be top dogs. Here's all you need to know about the game.

Where and when is it on?

The match takes place at Croke Park in Dublin with a 3.30pm throw-in on Sunday

What's the team news?

We'll bring you team news from both camps on Independent.ie as soon as it's released.

Where can I watch the game?

The match is being shown live on RTE2 and BBC2. It will be streamed live on the RTE Player and you can also follow all the action as it happens in our liveblog.

What can I read and listen to on Independent.ie?

Roy Curtis is asking how can Mick Fitzsimons defuse David Clifford, while Dessie Farrell is full of praise for the Kingdom's talisman and Jack O'Connor has been looking back on the 2011 final.

John Mullane and Eddie Brennan joined Michael Verney to look back on another incredible Limerick display in the hurling final and ask what did Kilkenny get wrong?

Are Limerick better than ever? And what sets them apart?

Plus, don't forget to join The Throw-In Football team on Thursday as they look ahead to next Sunday's All-Ireland football final between Dublin and Kerry.

Join the Throw-In every Monday for all your weekend GAA reaction and analysis from the Irish Independent sports team and visit Independent.ie for the latest GAA news.

Listen and follow on Apple, Spotify, or wherever you get your podcasts from.

And you can also catch up on the latest episode of Philly McMahon's Breaking Ball series that's running till the end of the Championship below.

There is limited GAA on TV and available to live stream this weekend. The only game in men's GAA is the 2023 All-Ireland senior football final along with more action from the All-Ireland Ladies Football Championship, with the semi-finals taking place this weekend.

All Fixtures listed are available to watch live on TV or available on paid live streams.

GAA On TV Saturday, July 29 TG4 Ladies All-Ireland Senior Football Championship - Semi-Finals
Kerry v Mayo at 5pm on TG4

Dublin v Cork at 7:30pm on TG4

Tickets available here

GAA On TV Sunday, July 23 All-Ireland Senior Football Championship Final Recommended
Turkmenistan To West Cork: Jennet O'Driscoll Finds Home In Gaelic Games
Turkmenistan To West Cork: Jennet O'Driscoll Finds Home In Gaelic Games
Ranking Every Nation's Home Kit At The 2023 FIFA Women's World Cup
Ranking Every Nation's Home Kit At The 2023 FIFA Women's World Cup
Kerry v Dublin at 3:30pm on RTÉ

Tickets sold out

GAA on TV Preview On Saturday, TG4 will show two of the weekend's hotly anticipated All-Ireland Senior Football Championship semi-final ties as Kerry face Mayo at 5pm and Dublin meets Cork at 7:30pm.

On Sunday, RTÉ has the weekend's headline game up for viewing. Kerry and Dublin will grace the pitch in Croke Park at 3:30pm for the All-Ireland football final.

GAA on TV - GAA Fixtures - Hurling championship fixtures - hurling fixtures 10 July 2022; Brian Fenton of Dublin in action against Jack Barry of Kerry during the GAA Football All-Ireland Senior Championship Semi-Final match between Dublin and Kerry at Croke Park in Dublin. Photo by Ramsey Cardy/Sportsfile

This is all of the GAA on Tv this week, there will be more GAA to watch on TV the following week when the All-Ireland senior football final is set to take place.

The game will see the reigning champions go head to head with the current Leinster champions Dublin in Croke Park on July 30 at 3:30pm. The inter-county Gaelic football season draws to a close on Sunday with a mouthwatering All-Ireland Football final between holders Kerry and rivals Dublin at Croke Park.

Kerry, the competition's most decorated county, are looking to win back-to-back titles for the first time since 2007 while the Dubs are hunting a first Sam Maguire Cup since 2020.

Throw-in is at 15:30 BST.

Here is how you can watch and follow the final across the BBC.

Sarah Mulkerrins will present coverage of the game on the BBC iPlayer and BBC Two, with build-up starting at 15:00.

Sarah will be joined in studio by a star-studded trio of pundits: three-time All-Ireland winning former Tyrone manager Mickey Harte, Armagh's 2002 All-Ireland winner Oisín McConville and Donegal's 2012 All-Ireland winning captain Michael Murphy.

Thomas Niblock will be joined in the commentary booth by Philly McMahon, an eight-time All-Ireland winner with Dublin, while Orla Bannon will provide pitchside updates alongside former Derry star Conleith Gilligan.

You can also follow the final on the BBC Sport website and app. The game will also be streamed on the website, while there will be live text commentary of the match with in-play clips, analysis and reaction.

There will also be a match report and highlights of the final after full-time.

Subscribe to The GAA Social on BBC Sounds

What other coverage will there be? The BBC will be building up to the final with a column from Michael Murphy.

And as usual, The GAA Social podcast with Thomas Niblock and Oisín McConville will be available on BBC Sounds from Wednesday.

There will be much more throughout the week including an in-depth preview of the showpiece game, including team news.

You can also stay up to date with all the latest news via BBC Sport NI's social media accounts and Gaelic Games index.

How did they get here? Kerry, who are searching for a record-extending 39th title, won the Munster Senior Football Championship before progressing through the round-robin stage of the All-Ireland series.

The Kingdom ended the hopes of two Ulster counties in the knockout rounds to return to another decider, beating Tyrone in convincing fashion in the quarter-finals before completing a comeback success over Derry in the last four, with 2022 footballer of the year David Clifford hitting 0-9 in another ruthless display.

Like Kerry, Dublin reigned supreme in their province with another Leinster title before topping their group ahead of Kildare, Roscommon and Sligo.

The Dubs outclassed bitter rivals Mayo in the quarter-finals and were pushed hard by Monaghan in the semis before ultimately claiming a 1-17 to 0-13 win.

As the two most successful footballing counties in All-Ireland history with 67 triumphs between them, Dublin and Kerry are used to meeting each other in the latter stages of the championship.

Last year, a last-gasp Seanie O'Shea free from distance helped Kerry edge Dublin 1-14 to 1-13 in a thrilling semi-final - Kerry's first championship win over Dublin since 2009.

They have met in numerous All-Ireland finals in a rivalry spanning over 100 years, the most recent of which came in 2019 when Dublin beat Kerry in a replay to win their fifth All-Ireland title in a row, an unprecedented feat.

Terms/Privacy PolicyPrivacy DashboardAbout Our Ads Golf Channel Fred Couples reveals three U.S. Ryder Cup locks on his radio show Brentley Romine Fri, Jul 28, 2023, 1:04 AM GMT+6 · 1 min read

8 Getty Images Did Fred Couples just tip the U.S. Ryder Cup team's hand? It's more likely that he just confirmed the obvious.

During his self-titled show on SiriusXM PGA Tour Radio, Couples was discussing the current U.S. Ryder Cup standings, particularly the Americans who were ranked just outside the top six in points – and "without getting anyone in trouble," Couples said, which ones were already locks for this September's matches in Rome.

No. 7 Max Homa? Couples: "Max Homa will be in Italy."

No. 8 Cameron Young? Couples: "Cam Young will be in Italy."

No. 9 Jordan Spieth? Couples: "Jordan Spieth will be in Italy."

So, there you have at least three locks aside from current auto qualifiers Scottie Scheffler, Wyndham Clark, Brian Harman, Brooks Koepka, Xander Schauffele and Patrick Cantlay. Scheffler is the only player who has officially clinched his spot on captain Zach Johnson's 12-man side, though Clark and Harman appear close to doing the same.

But what about No. 10 Keegan Bradley? Couples: "I'm stopping."