Finding Journals - Ulrich's Periodicals Directory

Finding Journals in Your Research Area

Ulrich's Periodicals Directory is a bibliographic database. The directory contains information about serials, including journals that are published around the world. You can use the directory to find information about a journal such as when it began publication, how often it is published in a year, the cost of a subscription and if the journal is peer reviewed.

This guide will show you how to use Ulrich's Periodicals Directory (UPD) to generate lists of journals that you may want to consider when looking to publish an article.

To find the directory, open a web browser to the library homepage: www.library.ubc.ca

3. To find journals in your subject area, change the drop-down to "Subject(Exact)" and begin typing your broad subject area. Ulrich's will provide you with suggested subjects.

To further narrow your search, select the "Add Term" and add a keyword using the "Subject (Keyword)" drop-down. This search will find anthropology journals that mention folklore within the journal record.

If you wish to further limit your search you can select from a variety of options such as: status, serial type, and content type.

To conclude the search, scroll to the bottom of the screen and select the green search button.
