

Xwi7xwa Library Summer 2011 Update

xwi7xwa.library.ubc.ca

UBC Aboriginal Scholarship and Research

Welcome—Sarah Dupont
(MLIS - U. Alberta)

New
Aboriginal Engagement Librarian
@
Xwi7xwa

Sarah hails from Prince George B.C. and is a member of the Métis community. Joining us from the Edmonton Public Library, Sarah provides reference and instruction services with Kim Lawson, Xwi7xwa reference librarian. Sarah will support the Indigenous education initiatives, at the Faculty of Education; Xwi7xwa digitization projects, such as increasing the Indigenous presence on cIRcle; and community outreach with the Irving K. Barber Centre and the First Nations House of Learning. Sarah has two wiener dogs, Daxon and Dexter, and loves to cook. Drop by or text 604.368.2635 to connect with Sarah.

New Copyright Environment

UBC Library offers workshops on the new UBC copyright environment. You can find them on the UBC copyright website under the Workshop tab at: <http://copyright.ubc.ca/>

UBC Aboriginal Scholars' Publications

xwi7xwa.library.ubc.ca

By Kim Lawson

UBC Aboriginal scholarship continues to grow! The Xwi7xwa database of scholarly publishing now includes 45 Aboriginal scholars (UBC-V and UBC-O) and cites over 350 books, chapters, journal articles and films. Raising the visibility of UBC Aboriginal scholars and awareness of Indigenous research and arts-based enquiry, it contributes to learning about new works as well as find familiar writings. UBC Aboriginal scholarship is both interdisciplinary and cross-disciplinary. It draws on a vast range of Indigenous knowledge and ways of knowing, together with diverse Western academic theories and traditions.

The Medicine Woman DVD documentary series @ Xwi7xwa PWH C44 M43 2007

Let us know about your new publications !!!

Welcome Dr. Danièle Behn-Smith, Director, Aboriginal Residency Training Site in the Faculty of Medicine at UBC, with the Division of Aboriginal Health and the Department of Family Practice (DFP). Dr. Behn-Smith was the Director of Education for the University of Alberta's Indigenous Health Initiatives Program and is known for her work as host of the Medicine Woman documentary series, directed by Shirley Cheechoo.

